The course will look at the Reformed and Methodist traditions associated with the theologies of John Calvin and John Wesley, their roots, development and intersection, particularly in Canada.

MAJOR THEMES

- the importance of context in the formation, institutional configuration, and expansion of reforming movements.
- unity and diversity within Protestant expressions of the Christian faith.
- the legacy of the Reformed and Methodist traditions in the mission of the Presbyterian Church in Canada and the United Church of Canada, and their antecedents.
- the search for Presbyterian and United Church “identity.”
- the challenges of post-World War II era for the theological heirs of Calvin and Wesley.

LEARNING OUTCOMES: Knowledge, Skills, and Competencies

Students successfully completing this course will communicate clearly and effectively, and be able to

- demonstrate knowledge of the Reformed and Methodist traditions by identifying key leaders, distinctive theological positions, and influences that shaped their approach to practicing the Christian life.
- show a critical awareness of the interplay of faith and culture, particularly in the Canadian context. demonstrate initiative and responsibility for creating a learning atmosphere by preparing for and participating in class activities.
- write essays that gather sources appropriate to the assignment to present findings in the suggested format.
- create a research paper that constructs an argument in support of a thesis, gathers sources appropriate to the task, and presents findings in the proper format.

COURSE RESOURCES

We have set up a website on Blackboard and will use it to post materials related to the course (e.g., handouts that are distributed in class). You will also find additional resources for reading and research, such as supplementary readings and bibliographies. To receive messages that may be sent by way of the portal during the term, you will have to sign in with your UTOR email address.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS AND EVALUATIVE CRITERIA

1. Completion of all required reading assignments before the class session to which they correspond, and informed participation in the class discussion (20%). The class sessions are organized around the readings assigned for that day; therefore it is important to complete the reading assignment before you come to class. We will often provide some study questions (either as a handout or on the course website) to guide your reading as you prepare for class.

2. Completion of the mid-term writing projects (25%) described on the green handout with length and dates due as indicated. Please note that the mark for late papers will be lowered by 1 point out of 100 per day (one point for the weekend) to a maximum of one grade level.

3. A research paper on a topic related to the themes of the course. The project will be in two parts:

a) a research proposal (5%) due on or before February 11.

After choosing a topic and doing some initial research, prepare a brief report (2-3 pages) submitted both in hard copy and electronically to s.macdonald@utoronto.ca that includes the following:

- the topic of the research essay;
- the research strategy and primary sources that will be used in the study;
- an initial suggestion of the anticipated argument or thesis;
- a preliminary bibliography.

b) a final paper (50%) due on April 3.

The essay (15-20 typed and double-spaced pages, approximately 3750-5000 words) should state a clear thesis in the first or second paragraph. The type and appropriate number of sources for the final research paper will be discussed in class. Web sources should be used only if they are making legitimate published sources available, as in the case of e-journals and Canadiana Online.

The University of Toronto has designed an excellent writing website. Here are two links that are particularly relevant to this course:

<http://www.writing.utoronto.ca/advice/specific-types-of-writing/history>

<http://www.writing.utoronto.ca/advice/planning-and-organizing/thesis-statements>

Please submit your paper in both hard copy and electronically to s.macdonald@utoronto.ca.

Changes in assignments or policies involving the method of evaluation proposed after the first class will be made with the consent of a simple majority of class members and announced in an email message from the Learning Portal.

COURSE POLICIES ON ATTENDANCE AND ASSIGNMENTS

Procedures for this course are based on the policies contained in the TST Basic Degree Handbook and the student handbooks for Emmanuel College and Knox College.

Class Attendance

If you miss more than two classes, your college's Basic Degree Committee will review your situation; more than three absences may result in loss of credit for the course.

Grading

Assessment of assigned work will follow the grading scale and standards outlined in the TST Basic Degree Handbook.

Late Penalty for Final Research Paper (due April 3)

4 points deducted per week late (2 off by Monday, 2 more by Friday)

Completion of Course work

All course work, including mid-term assignments, must be completed by the end of term (the last day of exams: this term April 11). Only in the case of illness (with a note from a doctor), bereavement or other exceptional circumstances will an extension be considered. This must be authorized by the Basic Degree Committee of the student's college.

Style Guidelines for Papers

Please consult Kate L. Turabian, A Manual for Writers of Term Papers, Theses, and Dissertations (based on Chicago Manual of Style). A "Chicago-Style Citation Quick Guide" is available online: http://www.chicagomanualofstyle.org/tools_citationguide.html. On reference citation style, also see "Traditional Endnotes or Footnote" at <http://www.writing.utoronto.ca/advice/using-sources/documentation>

Plagiarism Policy

See the TST Basic Degree Handbook for the policy on academic dishonesty. To avoid inadvertent plagiarism you may find it helpful to check this link to the University of Toronto's Writing Centre before you begin to work on your assignments:

<http://www.writing.utoronto.ca/advice/using-sources>. You will find advice on how not to plagiarize, using standard documentation forms (i.e., Turabian mentioned above), how to handle quotations, and how to paraphrase and summarize.

Consultation and Appointments

Please feel welcome to come and talk with either of us about your work. To make an appointment, check with us at class or by email to arrange a mutually convenient time. Students are especially encouraged to consult with the instructors about their research paper.

Accessibility

If you have a disability or health consideration that may require accommodations to facilitate your learning, please talk with us and/or a counsellor at University of Toronto Accessibility Services as soon as possible. For further information, check with your college registrar or consult this website: <http://www.accessibility.utoronto.ca/index.htm>.
