Policy

It is the policy of Knox College to provide Teaching Assistantships as possible given the financial realities of the college and the needs of Faculty.

Additional Information

Knox College, as a college of The Presbyterian Church in Canada, is committed to the education and formation of students for a teaching ministry. The availability of Teaching Assistantships is considered an important aspect of that education, and the college commits financially as it is able to support this undertaking. This means that while Knox is eager to provide Teaching Assistantships, given financial realities and the needs of faculty, not all doctoral students at Knox College will necessarily have Teaching Assistantships nor will all faculty members necessarily have access to a Teaching Assistant.
